Bangladesh. Scheduled for December 17, 2022, the seminar sought to provide a platform for scholarly discussions on the socio-political, cultural, and economic status of tribal communities before and after independence. By inviting eminent resource persons, the seminar aimed to foster a comprehensive understanding of the historical and contemporary issues faced by tribal populations, examining topics such as literacy, literature, state policies, and continued deprivation. The objective was to generate awareness, encourage academic discourse, and propose solutions for the upliftment and development of tribal communities.

Activity Report:

This was the first trilingual seminar focusing on tribal issues in Kolkata. More than 41 participants from various universities and colleges all over India presented their papers and more than 300 participants registered for this international seminar. It was organized keeping in mind the duty of the teaching fraternity to disseminate among the students a proper knowledge of tribal movements and culture since our idea of India and Indian history is incomplete without proper understanding of tribal culture and tribal movements. It is fitting that the seminar is being organized when the nation is celebrating the 75th year of independence. The seminar comprised multiple sessions and panel discussions covering diverse aspects of tribal culture, history, and movements. Scholars presented research papers on topics ranging from traditional tribal practices to the socio-economic impact of tribal movements. Interactive panel discussions allowed for cross-cultural comparisons and the sharing of global perspectives on indigenous issues. One of the seminar's highlights was the active participation of international scholars and experts who shared their experiences and research findings on tribal cultures and movements worldwide. This international collaboration enriched the discussions and fostered a global understanding of indigenous issues.

The papers presented during the seminar will be compiled and published as an edited book. This compilation will aim to serve as a valuable resource for researchers, policymakers, and activists interested in the diverse facets of tribal culture and movements in India

Outcome:

The seminar successfully achieved its objectives by providing a comprehensive overview of the cultural and socio-political dynamics of tribal communities in India and Bangladesh. It facilitated a rich exchange of ideas and knowledge, enhancing participants' understanding of the historical and contemporary challenges faced by tribals. The discussions underscored the importance of literacy, cultural movements, and policy reforms in addressing tribal deprivation. The event also fostered networking among scholars and encouraged further research and advocacy for tribal rights and development. The seminar concluded with a strong commitment to continue such academic endeavours to promote the welfare and upliftment of tribal communities.
